ESTABLISHED CHURCH (IRELAND) COMMISSION.

REPORT, &c.

TO THE QUEEN'S MOST EXCELLENT MAJESTY.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR GRACIOUS MAJESTY,

1. WE, the Commissioners constituted and appointed for inquiring into the revenues and condition of the Established Church in Ireland, under and by virtue of Your Majesty's Royal Commission, bearing date at Westminster the 30th day of October in the thirty-first year of Your Majesty's reign, whereby we are authorized and appointed to inquire and report "as to the several Archbishoprics, Bishoprics, dignities, and benefices, "and also as to the several ecclesiastical corporations aggregate existing in Ireland, and "as to the revenues, property, and emoluments belonging to the same respectively, and "as to the several charges, incumbrances, and other outgoings affecting the same "respectively, and also as to the several united and separate parishes and parochial "districts in Ireland; and in the case of unions distinguishing whether episcopal or per-"manent, and as to the several churches and chapels in Ireland, whether parochial, or "parochial district or proprietary, and the number of members of the Established "Church of England and Ireland inhabiting the parishes or districts attached to such "churches, and also as to the property and emoluments vested in and administered "by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland, the administration of the same by "such Commissioners, and the mode and purposes in and for which such last-mentioned "property has been applied, and also to inquire and report whether alterations or im-"provements should be made in the management, administration, and distribution of "the revenues and property hereinbefore mentioned, or in the state and condition of the "several offices, dignities, corporations, and benefices aforesaid,"—humbly submit to Your Majesty this our Report.

2. In order to obtain accurate information as to the several subjects of inquiry, we early in November issued forms of queries, which will be found in the Appendix to this Report, to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Church in Ireland, as to their revenues and the circumstances of the property belonging to the several Sees; to the Corporations aggregate, as to their revenues and the condition and circumstances of the several capitular bodies; to the Deans, Dignitaries, and other officers of the cathedrals, as to their emoluments and duties; and to the incumbents of the several benefices, as to the number of members of the Established Church, revenues, area, and general circumstances of their parishes or districts. Upon receiving the returns of the persons to whom these forms had been addressed (nearly 2,000 in number) we proceeded to have the contents arranged in the form of a tabular digest, the result of which now appears in the first five Schedules to this Report.

3. Forms of inquiries were also directed to the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland, with a view to obtain full and accurate returns of the lands and other property which, under the operation of the Statutes known as the Church Temporalities Acts (Ireland), had become vested in them, and the mode and purposes in and for which the revenues thence arising had been and were applied. The result of these inquiries will be found in the sixth and subsequent Schedules of this Report.

4. With respect, however, to the system adopted by this Board in reference to the administration and management of its property, and the general course of its proceedings, we thought it advisable that, in addition to written inquiries, a personal examination and inspection should be made; and accordingly one of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and other witnesses were examined, and the books of account and other records inspected at the office in Dublin, by some members of our Commission. The report of their proceedings is placed in an Appendix.

5. Having obtained the requisite information, we directed our attention to that portion of the duties imposed upon us by the terms of Your Majesty's Commission, which requires us to report "whether" in our judgment "alterations or improvements should "be made in the management, administration, and distribution of the revenues and "property" belonging either to ecclesiastical persons and corporations, or vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. In the discharge of these duties, interpreting the authority conferred upon us as confined to alteration and re-distribution within the limits of the Church establishment, we have felt bound to proceed without reference to the resolutions which have been adopted by the House of Commons with respect to the Church in Ireland after the date of Your Majesty's Commission. It is upon the assumption which the Commission implies, that this branch of the United Church shall continue by law established and endowed, that we have conducted our inquiry into its present state and condition, and that we now submit to Your Majesty our suggestions with a view to the improvement of its internal arrangements, and the administration and management of its property.

6. The Irish branch of the United Church of England and Ireland consists of two Archbishops, ten Bishops, thirty corporations of deans and chapters, twelve minor corporations or quasi-corporate bodies connected with cathedrals, 32 deans, 33 archdeacons, 1,509 beneficed incumbents (including within this term perpetual curates), and more than 500 stipendiary curates. The number of persons returned by the census of 1861 as belonging to its communion, was 693,357.

7. Its annual net revenues amount to about £581,000, of which about £364,000 arise from tithe-rentcharge, about £204,000 from the rents received from lands, and the residue from Government Stock or other sources. Of these revenues a considerable portion, about £113,000 a year, is administered for Church purposes by the central board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners. About £19,000 a year belongs to the capitular bodies, and is applied by them for the maintenance of the cathedral fabrics and services. The residue supplies the endowments of the Bishops, dignitaries, and beneficed clergy.

8. The property of the Church has been derived from various sources before and since the Reformation. We have not considered it to be within our province to enter upon a historical inquiry into these sources; nor if it had been, would the limit of time permit us to complete such an inquiry. But with respect to the property acquired after the Reformation from Royal or Parliamentary grants, and property that since the same period has been the gift of private individuals, we have inserted in the Appendix to this Report, such particulars as appear in the Patent Rolls in Chancery or in the Diocesan Registries.

9. Tithe was formerly paid by the occupiers and cultivators of the soil, either in kind, or according to compositions made between the incumbents and parishioners. By the Act 1 & 2 Vict., c. 109, this system was terminated, and a rentcharge equal to three-fourths of the annual compositions charged on each applotted parcel of land, and subject to variation at septennial periods, was substituted. This rentcharge was made payable by the person entitled to the first estate of inheritance or other perpetual interest, which are defined by the Act to include not only lands held in fee, but also any interest renewable for ever or held for any term of years, of which 100 were unexpired on the 30th October, 1838, or under an ecclesiastical landlord. The effect of this is to transfer the liability from the under-tenants and occupiers to the landlords and proprietors.

10. The net revenues received by the members of the various orders of the Church and by the Corporations aggregate, with the items of the calculations to ascertain them, will be found in Schedules I., II., III., IV., V. Summaries of the statistical information contained in the Schedules are also added.

11. There are in Ireland 1,074 benefices, the net income of which is under £300 a year. About 356 of these are above £200 a year, about 421 of the remainder above £100 a year, and about 297 under £100 a year. Amongst these are many with large Church population, some in important towns, and others so circumstanced that a supplementary provision for suitable Church ministration is much needed.

12. With a view to provide funds for the augmentation of such benefices, we have examined into the existing distribution of property within the Church, and considered how far, consistently with due regard to the various interests concerned, additional provision may be made for these benefices at present inadequately endowed, so as to adapt the parochial system to the exigencies of the Church population.

13. Previous to the Act 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 37, there were in Ireland four Archbishoprics and eighteen Bishoprics. By this Act the Sees were consolidated, and the number reduced to two Archbishoprics and ten Bishoprics. There are now twelve united dioceses: (1.) Armagh and Clogher. (2.) Meath. (3.) Down, Connor, and Dromore. (4.) Derry and Raphoe. (5.) Kilmore, Elphin, and Ardagh. (6.) Tuam, Killala, and Achonry. (7.) Dublin and Kildare. (8.) Ossory, Ferns, and Leighlin. (9.) Cashel, Emly, Waterford, and Lismore. (10.) Killaloe, Kilfenora, Clonfert, and Kilmacduagh. (11.) Limerick, Ardfert, and Aghadoe. (12.) Cork, Cloyne, and Ross.

14. The area, boundaries, and Church population of these dioceses, will be found in the Appendix. The net annual revenues of the twelve prelates amount to about £58,000.

15. After a full consideration of the circumstances of these several united dioceses, as regards their extent, Church population, number of benefices, position relatively to each other, and to the places of episcopal residence, having regard also to the increased facilities of communication, we are of opinion that a further consolidation of dioceses, and with one exception (Cork) a reduction of the incomes of the Bishops, may take place.

16. The dioceses which we think may be consolidated with others are (1) Meath; (2) The united diocese of Killaloe, Kilfenora, Clonfert, and Kilmacduagh; (3) The united diocese of Cashel, Emly, Waterford, and Lismore; (4) The united diocese of Kilmore, Elphin, and Ardagh. The consolidation may be effected as follows:—Meath to be united to Dublin; Killaloe and Kilfenora to Limerick; Clonfert and Kilmacduagh to Tuam; Cashel and Emly to Limerick; Waterford and Lismore to Ossory; Kilmore to Armagh; and Elphin and Ardagh to Tuam. If this arrangement be carried out, we recommend that the diocese of Ardfert and Aghadoe be transferred from the see of Limerick to that of Cork.

17. A majority of the Commissioners are of opinion that one Archbishop of the Irish branch of the Church ought to be sufficient; that the Archbishopric to be retained should be Armagh, and that the Archbishopric of Dublin should be reduced to a Bishopric with precedence over every other Bishopric. The other Commissioners think that this alteration is not required.

18. Taking into account the extent of superintendence, which in consequence of this reduction of the episcopate, must devolve upon the prelates, the various claims upon their bounty, and the social position conceded to the office, and having regard to the scale of judicial incomes in Ireland, we are of opinion that there should be provided for the primatial see of Armagh an income of £6,000 a year; for Dublin, if retained as an Archbishopric, £5,000 a year, and if reduced to a Bishopric, £4,500 a year; and for every other Bishopric an income of £3,000 a year; with an additional allowance of £500 for such of the Bishops as in each year attend Parliament.

19. These incomes and allowances should be free from any tax or deduction for ecclesiastical purposes. No portion of them should arise from lands let on terminable leases for fines; the nature of such property rendering the income derived from it uncertain and the management unsuited to ecclesiastical persons. When the requisite amount can be obtained from the rents of lands granted in perpetuity belonging to the See, sufficient should be allocated as an endowment. In cases where this cannot be effected, the deficiency of income should be paid by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Subject to the obligation to make these provisions for the Bishoprics, we recommend that all the episcopal lands should be vested in that Board, as part of their general property.

20. It appears to us that as incident to this arrangement of Episcopal income, the present system of charges for building and improving the See houses should be discontinued, and that such of these charges as are incumbrances upon the houses of the Bishoprics that shall be retained, should be paid off by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners out of their funds.

21. The circumstances of the Corporations of Deans and Chapters, and of the dignitaries connected with them, appear to us very clearly to demand a reduction in their number. These Corporations were not interfered with by the Church Temporalities' Acts; and consequently, notwithstanding the reduction of the number of Bishoprics to 12, no less than 30 corporations of Deans and Chapters still continue. Of these, two only have corporate property, viz., Waterford and Kildare; 16 have economy estates, viz., Armagh, Down, Christchurch Dublin, St. Patrick's Dublin, Leighlin, Waterford, Lismore, Limerick, Cork, Cloyne, Ross, Killaloe, and Tuam; 13 have no property whatever, either corporate or economy. In only a few of the cathedrals is choral service celebrated; and some are situated in places where the number of members of the Established Church is small.

22. Very few of the dignitaries of these corporations retain the emoluments which once belonged to their offices. The Church Temporalities' Acts enabled the Lord Lieutenant in Council to suspend cathedral dignities, and to transfer their emoluments to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners; and also in certain cases to disappropriate their lands and tithe-rentcharge from unsuspended dignities in order to vest them in the Commissioners. The result has been, that revenues amounting to about £14,000 a year, once enjoyed by these dignitaries, have become part of the property of the Commissioners, the particulars of which will be found in Schedule IX. These statutes, however, gave power to the authority that suspended, afterwards to restore the office, subject to the severance of the property. The exercise of this power of restoration has led to the revival of deaneries and other dignities without either official income or duty.

23. There appears to us no sufficient reason for maintaining a larger number of cathedral establishments than of Sees, and the aggregate endowments of all are not sufficient to maintain more than this reduced number in a state of efficiency. We accordingly recommend that with the exception of eight, all the existing corporations of Deans and Chapters be dissolved, and the deaneries and other dignities connected with them suppressed.

24. The eight cathedrals which in our opinion should be preserved as such, are those of Armagh, Down, Derry, Tuam, Kilkenny, Limerick, Cork, and St. Patrick's Dublin; being all, except Down, situate in the cities in which the Bishops of the sees which we recommend to be retained, have their residences. With respect to the Cathedral of Down, it should he provided that the arrangements for its continuance shall terminate so soon as a cathedral shall be built in Belfast, in which case the Dean and the members of the Chapter of the present cathedral should succeed to corresponding offices in the new.

25. Connected with ten of the cathedrals there are twelve Minor Corporations or quasi-corporate bodies, of vicars choral and minor canons. The object of these foundations was to make provision for maintaining choral services. The property of three of these bodies has, by Orders in Council pursuant to powers given by the 25th section of the Act 6 & 7 Wm. IV., c. 99, become vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, subject to existing life interests, and to the obligation of maintaining as many successors, as the duties of the cathedrals with which they were connected, require. The property of the other nine amounts to about £9,000 a-year; the full particulars of which will be found in Schedule III. We recommend that all these Minor Corporations or quasi-corporate bodies be dissolved; and that in each of the cathedrals which shall be retained, there he substituted, two clerical vicars choral with freehold offices, and a choir of lay choristers, appointed and removable at pleasure by the Dean and Chapter.

26. With respect to the property at present belonging to the Cathedral Corporations, whether Deans and Chapters, or vicars choral, or minor canons, and whether such property be corporate or economy, we recommend that all such, and also all existing endowments, whether vested in such bodies or not, which are applicable to maintain cathedral fabrics or services, and also all separate revenues of members of the Chapters not having a special application by bequest or donation, other than those of the Deans of the Cathedrals which shall be retained, be transferred to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and form in their hands a common fund to be termed the Cathedral estate, the income of which shall be primarily applied to defray the expense of repairing the buildings, and supporting proper establishments of vicars choral and choristers in the cathedrals.

27. Some alterations in the existing provisions for the maintenance of the eight deaneries which are to be continued, require to be made. The income of the Dean of St. Patrick's, Dublin, should, we think, be fixed at £1,200 a year; that of the other Deans equalized to £1,000 a year: such incomes to be of that amount exclusive of every ecclesiastical tax or charge. Every Dean should be obliged to reside at his cathedral, and daily choral service should be provided. In no instance should the income of a Dean be derived from the revenues of any parish other than that in which the cathedral is situate. In the particular cases of Armagh and Tuam, the rectories of Armagh and Tuam should be respectively united to the deaneries, and so long as the cathedral is continued at Downpatrick, the Dean should continue to be rector of the parish.

28. All Appropriations vested in the deaneries and other dignities should be severed, and, according as the circumstances of the Church population may require, should be either added to the vicarages or curacies of the appropriated parishes, or transferred to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, subject to the obligation of providing for the spiritual care of the parishes.

29. Whatever deficiency, after these arrangements, there may be in the revenues of any of the eight Deans, below the amount which we have suggested for their official incomes, should be supplied from the funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

30. In Dublin the cathedral of Christchurch would, according to the suggestions which we have made, cease to be a cathedral. The building may in our opinion be usefully employed as a parish church. In order to effect this arrangement, power should be given to the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners to examine into the circumstances of such of the neighbouring parish churches as are in Royal or Ecclesiastical patronage; and power should also be given to the Lord Lieutenant in Council, on the recommendation of this Board, to unite, divide, or otherwise deal with these parishes and their churches as they may think fit, so as to annex a suitable parish or district to Christchurch, and otherwise re-adjust the parochial arrangements as may seem advantageous.

31. The present number of Archdeacons (33) appears to us in excess of what is required. If the diocese of Kilmore be added to the dioceses of Armagh and Clogher, there may properly be an Archdeacon for each of these dioceses; but in all other united dioceses proposed to be formed, two Archdeacons for each, would seem to be sufficient.

32. The power to determine the titles of these Archdeacons, and the territorial limits within which they are to act, may properly be intrusted to the Lord Lieutenant in Council upon the recommendation of the Bishop of the diocese and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Each Archdeacon should, in our opinion, receive an income of £100 a year from the funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners to meet the expenses incident to his official duties. Any revenues at present attached to their offices, not belonging to parishes in which they have cure of souls, should be transferred to the Commissioners At present many of the Archdeaconries have attached to them particular parishes, so that no other is tenable with the office. This has been found productive of inconvenience, especially as limiting the range of selection in making the appointment. It appears to us advisable, that for the future the preferment shall be unconnected with any particular benefice; and we deem it to be well worthy of consideration whether the appointment of the Archdeacons should not be dependent on the Episcopal incumbency of the See, the new Bishop to re-appoint the Archdeacon whom he finds in office, or to appoint another, as he may think fit.

33. There is in Ireland one exempt jurisdiction, that of Newry and Mourne, which owes its origin to a monastery, established at a very ancient date at Newry, and of which the abbot was what is termed a mitred abbot, entitled to a seat in Parliament. The jurisdiction extends over the parishes of Newry and Kilkeel, with the chapelries of Kilcoo, Killegar, and Tamlaght, an area of about 100,000 acres, with a Church population of about 7,000. The jurisdiction is exercised by the Earl of Kilmorey or his trustees, through a vicar-general; from whom the appeal lies direct to the Queen in Chancery and not to any metropolitan jurisdiction. An exempt jurisdiction of this character within the Church is an anomaly not attended by any compensating advantage. It places both laity and clergy outside episcopal superintendence. We do not find that any pecuniary benefit (except some fees for marriage licences received by the Vicar-General) arises from the maintenance of this jurisdiction. We recommend that the parish of Newry should be placed under the episcopal jurisdiction of the Archbishop of Armagh, as it is on one side co-terminous with his diocese, and the other parishes for a similar reason under that of the Bishop of Down; the present Vicar-General to be compensated for any loss of fees out of the revenues of the Registries of Armagh and Down.

34. One chantry chaplaincy exists, that of St. Mary, in the parish of St. Nicholas-within-the-Walls, Dublin. It was founded, and endowed with lands, in the reign of Edward IV., by the Earl of Worcester and some citizens of Dublin, pursuant to Royal licence. The chaplain has no duties whatever to perform; and we recommend that the lands shall be vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, for the same purposes as their other estates.

35. The original parochial divisions in Ireland were very numerous. For ecclesiastical purposes they have been much modified in form and reduced in number. But for the purposes of geographical distinction, they still exist. These original divisions have been termed by the Census Commissioners civil parishes; their number, according to the Ordnance Survey, is 2,428. The number of benefices at present existing (including in that term perpetual curacies), and confining it to cases where the benefice is held by an actual incumbent, is 1,518, of which all except 27 chapelries and 7 sinecure rectories, have attached to them parishes or districts. There are many of these ecclesiastical parishes and districts, each of which comprises several civil parishes, or portions of several civil parishes, grouped together. The distinction between the ecclesiastical parish or district, and the civil parish, is often overlooked, and thus the civil parish has erroneously been supposed always to represent a benefice. The distinction is, however, important to be kept in mind, as the results of the religious Census of 1861 have, in the published returns of the Commissioners, been stated according to the civil parishes. By the assistance of the Registrar-General, who was one of the Census Commissioners, we have been able to give the same results arranged and classified according to the ecclesiastical parishes and districts.

Pnnted image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

36. Of the ecclesiastical parishes a large proportion retain their original form and boundaries. These, having been fixed at a remote period, under circumstances that have been modified or that have ceased to exist, and with a view to considerations no longer applicable, are in many instances unsuitable to the convenience of the Church population. The parochial and pastoral districts, which have been formed within a recent period, are not in general inconvenient.

37. The distribution of the revenues of the Church, is of course to a great degree dependent upon the ecclesiastical territorial divisions, and, where these are unsuitable, the distribution also fails to meet the present requirements. The system of Appropriations, which withdrew from many parishes the principal part of the emoluments and left no adequate provision for the spiritual duties, has also contributed to the same result.

38. There can be little doubt that a re-adjustment of parochial arrangements and endowments, based upon a consideration of the circumstances proper to be taken into account, such as area, Church population, and Church accommodation, is most desirable.

39. Some statutable powers enabling improvements of this character to be made, at present exist. Bishops can unite such benefices as are in their own patronage, and such as are not, with consent of the patron, for a single turn, provided that the benefices to be united are all vacant at the time; but by the 7 & 8 Geo. IV., c. 43, s. 21, they are obliged to give notice of their intention and reasons for uniting to the Lord Lieutenant in Council, and it is not until six weeks after such notice, and only if not disapproved of by him, that the union is valid. They have no power of dividing parishes.

40. Permanent unions and divisions of parishes can be made by the Lord Lieutenant in Council. The Act 7 & 8 Geo. IV., c. 43, and amending Acts, empower him with the advice and approbation of the Archbishop of the province and Bishop of the diocese, to divide old parishes; to separate a parish or part of a parish heretofore united; to unite parishes one to another, or any part of a parish to another parish or part of a parish; to erect such divided or united parishes, or parts of parishes, into new parishes; and in cases of different patrons to settle a scheme of turns of presentation. The patron may object to the proposed plan; but his objection is subject to be overruled by the Council. The alterations may be made, whether the benefices dealt with are full or vacant; if full, the alterations are prospective, and take effect on vacancy; if vacant, they take effect immediately.

41. The Privy Council being, however, in respect of this matter a judicial tribunal, rather than an administrative Board, the result is that the initiation and expense of all proceedings in relation thereto are thrown upon the Bishop. We think it advisable that this duty should be imposed upon the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners; to whom on each vacancy of a benefice the Bishop of the diocese shall be bound to report the circumstances of the vacant and adjoining benefices; and that thereupon this Board shall consider whether union, division, or alteration be needed: and whether, if so, it should be of a permanent or temporary character: with power on fitting occasions to employ professional assistance to inquire into the local circumstances of parishes and districts, with a view to the re-arrangement of benefices; the Bishop or Bishops of the diocese or dioceses in which the benefices intended to be dealt with are situate, to be summoned by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and vote as members at the meetings of the Board held for these purposes; all requisite proceedings to give effect to the resolutions of the Board to be conducted under its superintendence, and the expenses to be defrayed out of its funds.

42. A power of suspending the appointment to benefices in royal or ecclesiastical patronage, in which, by the certificate of the ordinary it should appear that for three years next preceding the 1st February, 1833, Divine service had not been celebrated, was given to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners by the 116th section of 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 37, the Bishop of the diocese being associated with them in deciding upon the propriety of such suspension. Upon suspension the revenues vest in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, who are bound to provide for any requisite spiritual duties, either by paying a curate, or by committing their care to a neighbouring incumbent. About 57 benefices have been so suspended, the particulars of which will be found in Schedule VIII. No valid reason can be given for confining these clauses to cases of non-performance of Divine service for three years before 1833. We recommend that they shall be extended to all cases where at any time such non-performance shall have occurred for the preceding twelve months. It is stated to have been decided that they do not apply, if the benefice in which such non-performance occurred, was in 1833 part of an union, although since severed and separate. This defect should be amended.

43. A judicious exercise of these several statutable powers of uniting, dividing, and re-arranging the area of benefices, would effect much towards removing such anomalies as at present exist, of parishes on the one hand with large endowment and small Church population, and on the other with large Church population and inadequate endowment. But no redistribution would afford a sufficient remedy, where the aggregate of the endowments of the whole district falls below what is required to supply its claims.

44. In order to meet this exigency we recommend two measures. (1.) To enable the Ecclesiastical Commissioners (the Bishop of the diocese voting for the occasion as one), if they think fit, to suspend any benefice in royal or ecclesiastical patronage in which the Church population does not reach a certain number, which we would suggest to be forty, according to the census next preceding—the revenues thereupon to vest in the Commissioners in the same manner as the revenues of parishes suspended for non-performance of Divine service, and with a similar obligation to provide for the spiritual duties; and (2) to raise the scale of ad valorem tax now levied on all benefices above £300 a year, in such of these as have not a Church population of at least 100.

45. The number of benefices in lay patronage amounts to 309. We advise the provisions for suspension to be extended to these, if either the consent of the patrons can be obtained, or a compensation made to them.

46. Some charges now pressing upon the clergy may, in our opinion, be either otherwise provided for or rendered less burdensome. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners, under the authority of the Act 23 & 24 Vict., c. 150, lend money for building or repairing glebe houses, repayable with interest by instalments. An extension of the time limited for repayment of these loans, so as to make the amount of principal repaid in each instalment less than it is at present, has been suggested by the Commissioners, and this suggestion appears to us judicious. The Visitation fees, and some other fees, are levied to maintain the Ecclesiastical Courts and Registries. These Courts and Registries exist for the benefit of the whole Establishment, and not merely of the individual clergy. They should therefore, in our opinion, be maintained out of the general funds in the hands of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. Their number may be advantageously diminished. The expense of inquiring into the dilapidations and general condition of the glebe houses, and enabling or compelling the incumbents to keep them in repair, might well be made less, by the substitution of more simple and summary modes of proceeding. The tax for diocesan schools should he borne by the funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners; and it should not be payable except where such schools are in efficient operation.

47. To these recommendations for the improvement of the condition of the Irish clergy we would add two suggestions. The policy which protects the incomes of judicial and official persons from being incumbered, appears to us in a peculiar degree to apply to the revenues of the clergy, granted not for individual benefit but for the suitable maintenance of the office. We recommend that all instruments to incumber the benefice shall be declared void, as against not only the successor but the incumbent himself. In like manner we regard non-residence as inconsistent with the purposes of a parochial ministry. The Act 5 Geo. IV., c. 91, was intended to prevent this evil in Ireland. But the proceedings under it appear to us more tedious and less effective than they might be; and we recommend the law on these subjects to be amended.

48. A large portion of the temporalities of the Irish branch of the Established Church (upwards of £204,000 a year) consists of income derived from lands. Of these lands much the greater part, producing about £142,000 a year, belongs to the Bishops, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, the Corporations aggregate, and the Dignitaries of the cathedrals. The remainder (in value about £62,000 a year) belongs to the parochial clergy. The income arising from the lands of the clergy, although they are generally let at moderate rents, may be considered to represent the improved value. But as to all the other lands of the Church, the income received by the ecclesiastical landlord bears a small proportion to the value.

49. Originally there was an unlimited power of leasing and alienating the lands of Bishops, Dignitaries, and Corporations aggregate. For this, by the 1 Charles I., c. 3, and subsequent statutes, has been substituted a limited power, which still continues, to lease such lands when situate in towns for forty years, and when situate elsewhere for twenty-one years, during the duration of the lease at the old rent, and after its termination at a moiety of the value. Certain lands given by the Act of Settlement of Charles II. may be leased for lives.

50. The leases of lands capable of being leased for twenty-one years at the old rent, are usually renewed annually for that term, in consideration of fines. These fines are supposed to bear a certain proportion to the improved annual value of the lands; in the diocese of Armagh one-eighth, and in all other dioceses one-fifth. Renewals of leases of lands capable of being leased for longer terms of years or for lives, are taken for proportionate fines at more lengthened intervals. The custom of renewing the chief lease has led to a system of sub-letting, with an engagement to renew on each renewal of the head lease. Such an engagement is known as a toties quoties covenant.

51. This system of leasing and sub-leasing was attended with much uncertainty of tenure, both to the chief and subordinate interests. Accordingly, with a view to remedy the inconvenience, provisions were introduced in the Church Temporalities' Acts (Ireland), enabling chief tenants of Bishops or other ecclesiastical corporations sole, or of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, for customary terms of 21 years, three lives, or 40 years, to purchase a conveyance of a perpetual estate in their lands, subject to a fee-farm rent; the rent to be the aggregate amount of the rent reserved by the lease about to be converted into a perpetuity, and of the average annual fine; and to be liable to vary at septennial periods with variation in the average price of wheat or oats, whichever be the grain most grown in the district where the lands are situate.

52. The price to be paid for the perpetuity by the chief tenant, is directed to be estimated in the following manner. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are to ascertain the full improved yearly value of the lands, either by issuing a commission of valuation or otherwise, as they think fit; then to calculate upon this basis the value of the fee-simple, subject only to the fee-farm rent to be reserved; and an allowance of £4 per cent. having been deducted, the value of the existing lease is to be subtracted; and the balance forms the purchase money.

53. Before the 1st of August, 1844, the annual value was found by multiplying the customary fine in the diocese of Armagh by eight, and in all other dioceses by five. But since this date, it has been ascertained, either by actual survey and valuation, or from any other source by which the Commissioners are enabled to find the bonâ fide full improved value of the lands. Had the customary fine represented the proportion of the true value, which in theory it was supposed to do, both modes of calculation should have agreed. But this not being the case, in consequence of the long intervals between the revisions of the valuations for fines, and the inaccurate manner in which they were made; the result was in most instances to increase the rate of price. The value of the fee is taken at 20 years' purchase on the annual value, after deducting the fee-farm rent to be reserved: and the value of the existing lease (which is to be subtracted from the value of the fee), if for 21 years, at the number of years' purchase which is represented by the multiplier 12·821; and if for longer terms of years or for lives, at the notarial value.

54. The increase of price caused by the change in the mode of valuation adopted since 1844, is stated to have had the effect of discouraging the purchase of perpetuities. This is confirmed by a comparison of the amount received before August 1, 1844, viz., £471,244; and since that date, viz., £168,026.

55. It appears to us expedient to encourage the conversion of leaseholds into perpetuities. In no other way can the objectionable system of leasing for fines be terminated; and until it is terminated, the under-tenants and cultivators of the soil, uncertain whether the superior interest is to continue on which their own depends, cannot be expected to make either permanent or extensive improvements in their lands. Besides, whatever be the price withheld, is so much lost for Church purposes.

56. To find an exact pecuniary measure of the increase in value arising from the conversion of the leasehold into a perpetuity, is difficult, if not impracticable; but some of the objections made to the present system might well be removed. Instead of taking the full improved annual value, ascertained ex parte by a private estimate, as the basis of the calculation of price, the public valuation known as the Tenement valuation, might be adopted with advantage. It is accessible to every person, and is used for assessing poor rate and other local taxation in Ireland. It is somewhat, but not disproportionately, below the full improved value.

57. The present valuation of the fully renewed lease for 21 years, which is to be subtracted from the value of the fee, seems to us too low. It assumes money worth £5 per cent., which is a high value in dealings of this character; and the lease is estimated as if it were a 21 years' lease merely, whereas it is a lease for that term certain, with a customary right of renewal. The standard of value might fairly be taken at 14 years' purchase.

58. The rate of interest charged by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for purchase money not paid, but secured under statutable powers by mortgage, is at present £5 per cent. We recommend that it should be reduced to £4 per cent.

59. The benefit of these suggestions, if adopted as to the chief tenant, should be extended to the sub-tenants holding by leases with a toties quoties covenant, both as to purchase from their immediate landlords, and if these refuse to buy, then from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

60. The lands belonging to Ecclesiastical Corporations aggregate, although generally let on the same principles as those of Corporations sole, were omitted from the provisions of the Church Temporalities' Acts. We are unable to see any sufficient reason for leaving the tenants of these lands in a different position, or for keeping up a distinction in the laws that regulate the tenure of the estates belonging to these different owners. The same provisions should equally apply to both; and they should include the case of leases made by such of these Corporations as have been dissolved.

61. With respect to the glebe lands we consider it unadvisable that the parochial clergy should be involved in the personal management of land, beyond the portion requisite for household and residential purposes. Leases of the remaining portions of these lands at fair rents should be encouraged, so as to create a solvent tenantry, and as much as possible secure for the incumbent a certain income. In order to effect this, we recommend that a power of leasing glebe lands for terms suitable to the local circumstances, be vested in the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

62. With respect to the tithe-rentcharge, it appears to us that it would be expedient to empower the owners of perpetual estates to redeem upon fair terms the tithe-rentcharge now payable by them to ecclesiastical landlords. The purchase money for such redemption we recommend should be paid to, and administered by, the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, the principal thereof to be invested in the purchase of lands or Government securities, and the income to be applied for the same purposes as the rentcharge redeemed.

63. The Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners in Ireland is constituted under the provisions of the Church Temporalities' Acts (Ireland). These Acts provide that it shall consist of four ex officio members, namely, the Lord Primate of all Ireland, the Lord High Chancellor of Ireland, being a member of the United Church of England and Ireland, the Lord Archbishop of Dublin, and the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, being a member of the United Church of England and Ireland, of four Bishops nominated by the Crown, and of three other "proper and discreet persons," of whom two are to be nominated by the Crown, and one by the Archbishops of Armagh and Dublin. Since the death of the late Bishop of Derry, who was a member of the Board, the vacancy has not been filled by the Crown; and another vacancy has been caused by the recent death of Sir Benjamin Lee Guinness. The persons who now form the Board are the Lord Primate, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Lord Archbishop of Dublin, the Bishops of Meath, Ossory, and Cashel, the Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, Dr. Gayer, Q.C., and Mr. Quin. Dr. Gayer was appointed by the Crown and Mr. Quin by the Archbishops of Armagh and Dublin. Dr. Gayer and Mr. Quin receive salaries; all the other Commissioners are unpaid.

64. A very large amount of property has by the operation of provisions in the Church Temporalities' Acts (Ireland) become vested in this Board. The net annual revenues at present received by them may be estimated at upwards of £113,000 a year. These revenues are derived from the episcopal estates, which were transferred to them on the reduction of the Bishoprics by the Act of 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 37; from the property of dignities and benefices which have been suspended by Orders in Council; from tithes and lands disappropriated from other dignities by similar Orders in Council; from rentcharges payable to the Commissioners out of the sees of Armagh and Derry; from an ad valorem tax imposed on all bishoprics, dignities, and benefices exceeding in annual value £300, and which increases in its proportion according to certain scales of income; and from the accumulations of the purchase money received on the conversion of leasehold interests into perpetuities.

65. All these various revenues constitute a general fund, which originally under the Church Temporalities' Acts was applicable for the following purposes, viz.: discharging the expenses of the Commissioners' establishment; providing church requisites; payment of parish clerks, sextons, and organists; building and repairing churches; and for some special charges, such as salaries to the curates of Dublin parishes. Any surplus that might remain, after answering these demands, was intended to be applied in augmenting small benefices and curacies. An additional charge was however afterwards thrown upon the fund, namely, the payment to the parochial clergy in certain cities, of incomes equivalent to those which they had previously received from a tax on houses and tenements, known as ministers' money, which by the Act 20 & 21 Vict. c. 8, was abolished. An estimate returned to us by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners of the average amount required communibus annis for each of these heads of expenditure, will be found in the Sixth Schedule.

66. The Church Temporalities' Acts preserved the rights of the then existing Prelates, dignitaries, and incumbents. Hence no portion of the revenues of the Ecclesiastical Commission was at first available except what was raised by the sale of perpetuities. But, vestry rates for church requisites, building, and repair of churches having been abolished, the interest from the fund created by the necessarily gradual conversion of leaseholds, was quite inadequate to meet the obligations imposed by the statutes on the funds of the Commissioners.

67. To meet this difficulty, power was given to the Commissioners by the Act 4 & 5 Wm. IV., c. 90, s. 45, to borrow from the Board of Public Works any sum or sums of money not exceeding in the whole £100,000, to be afterwards repaid with interest out of their property; and a subsequent Act, 6 & 7 Wm. IV., c. 99, s. 15, directed all moneys received from purchasers of perpetuities to be invested in public securities, and authorized the sale and disposal of such securities, as occasion should arise, and the application of the proceeds for the same purposes, as in previous statutes had been appointed for their general revenues.

68. Accordingly a loan for the authorized amount was obtained from the Board of Works. This has long since been repaid out of the Perpetuity Purchase Fund. From the same source for about ten or twelve years the expenditure by the Commissioners in building and repairing the fabrics of churches (many of which it is stated were delivered up to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in a dilapidated condition), and in providing for the church officers and requisites, was mainly defrayed. The amount of principal of the fund disposed of, in order to meet these several demands, is reported to us as having amounted to £520,867.

69. The use of the principal for these purposes was discontinued soon after the year 1845, when a communication on the subject took place between the Commissioners and Lord Heytesbury, then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

70. The Commissioners also hold as trustees some property appropriated for particular purposes. Thus the funds known as Primate Boulter's and Primate Robinson's funds, the former amounting to upwards of £89,000 Government stock, and the latter to £985 consols (the particulars of which are given in Schedule XIV.), being bequests of those Prelates to buy glebes and augment small benefices, were by the Act 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 37, s. 61, transferred to the Commissioners for these purposes. They also administer for like purposes in the dioceses of Waterford and Lismore, a fund called Bishop Gore's Fund, bequeathed by a prelate of that name; and some private endowments for churches, in all about £4,240, Government stock, the full particulars of which are given in Schedule XV., are also standing to their account.

71. The duties at present discharged by this Board and the additional powers which will be required in order to give effect to some of our recommendations, if adopted by the Legislature, render it in the highest degree important that it should be efficiently constituted. Some changes in the present arrangement appear to us indispensable. Two of the ex officio members are Judges, necessarily occupied in their especial duties; and the result is, as might be expected, that their attendance is extremely rare. Further, if they happen not to be members of the Church, and so ineligible to act, there is no provision made to supply their places. When this is taken into account, we are of opinion that the laity is not in proportion sufficiently represented on the Board. It appears to us that it would be more advisable to have only two ex officio members, viz., the Prelates of the Sees of Armagh and Dublin; two other Bishops to be selected by the Crown, one from the Province of Munster and the other from the Province of Connaught, to represent the local interests of the dioceses situate therein respectively, the two ex officio members sufficiently representing the interests of the dioceses situate in Ulster and Leinster; three laymen unpaid, to be nominated by the Crown, and two paid Commissioners, to be nominated (in accordance with the analogy of the mode of appointing the English paid Ecclesiastical Commissioners), one by the Crown and the other by the Lord Primate.

72. An examination of the working of the Establishment in its various departments has satisfied us that the official duties are discharged with diligence and ability. An excellent system of keeping the books and accounts, for which the Board were indebted to the suggestions of the late Sir Benjamin Lee Guinness, has been introduced. But the proportion which the expenses of administration and management bear to the revenues is high, and in our opinion capable of being reduced, without prejudice to efficiency. At present there are two paid Commissioners, two chief subordinate officers, the secretary and treasurer; two architects, each with a salary, bound to give their entire time to the business of the Commission; a travelling agent, some local agents, and in addition a portion of the income is collected by an agency firm. The per-centage for collection is in some instances as high as 10 per cent. There are also paid local inspectors of the churches, and of the outlay upon their building and repair. The clerks are 25 in number, of whom 21 are termed permanent and 4 supernumerary.

73. Upon inquiry we have ascertained that the paid Commissioners of the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners in England, with the assistance of the Bank of England, discharge the duties of the Treasurer's department under their Commission; no separate office of Treasurer exists. The evidence of the Secretary of the Bank of Ireland has satisfied us that a like system might without any inconvenience or difficulty be adopted in Ireland, and that the expense of the separate office of Treasurer might be saved. In proposing to retain two paid Commissioners we intend that they, with the assistance of the Bank of Ireland, should act as Treasurers. We think that the employment of a head clerk in the agency department is unnecessary; and as to the clerks' departments we are of opinion that they could be so remodelled as to reduce expenditure without impairing efficiency. The per-centage for collection of rents and tithe-rentcharge ought to be revised with a view to reduction, and the system of supervision of rentals and accounts is capable of improvement. In the architect's department it would in our opinion be a more advantageous arrangement to have a head architect of eminence, with proper skilled assistance, and with an improved system of local inspection. We are further of opinion that the accounts of the Commissioners should be annually examined under some efficient system of audit.

74. By these alterations in the administration of the offices of this Board, we anticipate that the present expenses of the establishment may be diminished, and that if an increase of the staff employed in the agency and clerks' departments shall be needed, in consequence of the additional property and duties which under our recommendations would devolve upon them, the expense will be proportionably less.

75. With respect to the present application of the annual revenues of the Board for church purposes, we think that the payment of some of the charges upon them should cease; such as the expenses of the elements for the Holy Communion, and all payments connected with organs or music in churches not cathedral, by which means a saving of about £3,700 a-year would be effected. The payment of the salaries of the parish clerks should be continued only in the cases in which it appears to the Commissioners that the parishioners are not in a condition to provide for them by their subscriptions; and in such cases they should consider whether the offices of parish clerk and sexton may not be advantageously united in the same person. In this manner we anticipate that in the expenditure for these officers, at present averaging about £24,000 a-year, a considerable reduction might be effected. In case the Ecclesiastical Courts and Registries shall be maintained out of the general funds, as already suggested, the office of auditor of their accounts may be abolished, and the salary (£250 a-year) saved.

76. The surplus income of all estates and funds vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners should be applicable to the suitable augmentation of benefices inadequately endowed. The limit to augmentation, imposed by the Act 3 & 4 Wm. IV., c. 37, s. 93, which prohibits any augmented benefice being raised beyond £200 a year, is in our opinion injudicious. The places in which such augmentation is most needed, are where the Church population is considerable. When in country districts this population is widely scattered, or where in towns the residence of the incumbent may involve larger expenses, in these cases such an income as £200 a year might be altogether inadequate. We recommend that the Ecclesiastical Commissioners in dealing with such cases should be enabled to exercise a wide discretion. They should also have power to determine the mode in which augmentation or endowment is to be made, whether by annual payments, or by the allocation, or the purchase and grant, of lands.

77. Some of the alterations and improvements that we have recommended can only be effected from time to time as vacancies arise by the termination of existing interests, with which we have not intended to interfere. But the benefit of others not less important, is capable of being at once attained by proper legislation.

78. The following is a summary of the principal recommendations made in this our Report.

1. A further consolidation of Dioceses and a reduction in the number and (with one exception) in the incomes of the Bishops.
2. A corresponding reduction in the number of Cathedral establishments, so that they shall not exceed the number of Bishoprics.
3. A reduction in the number of Archdeacons
4. The suppression of all dignities and offices in the dissolved Cathedral Corporations.
5. A re-arrangement of benefices, to meet the exigencies of the Church population, and a more equitable adjustment of income to services.
6. That with a view to re-arrangement, the duty be imposed upon the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners of taking the necessary proceedings for the union, division, or alteration of benefices.
7. That the existing powers of suspending appointments to benefices be extended to all cases where for twelve months next before the time of suspension Divine service shall not have been performed, and also to benefices in Royal or Ecclesiastical patronage where the Church population is under 40 in number. In each case provision to be made for such spiritual duties as are requisite.
8. That an additional ad valorem tax be imposed upon all benefices above £300 a-year in which the Church population does not amount to 100 in number.
9. That payment of the expenses of providing the elements for the Holy Communion, or for music in any churches not cathedral, out of the funds of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, be discontinued, and that in no cases, except where the parishioners are unable to provide for the services of a parish clerk, shall a salary to a parish clerk be paid by the Commissioners, and that in such cases the offices of parish clerk and sexton be consolidated, if practicable.
10. That the expense of maintaining the Ecclesiastical Courts and Registries be defrayed by the general fund vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and that the clergy be thereupon relieved from the visitation fees.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

11. That the period for repayment of building loans from the Ecclesiastical Commissioners be extended.
12. That the estates of all the capitular bodies, and such estates of the Bishoprics as shall not be allocated for the endowment of those retained, shall be transferred to the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners.
13. That the surplus arising from all property vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, shall be applicable at their discretion for the suitable augmentation of benefices inadequately endowed.
14. That with a view to carry out these recommendations and others of a subordinate character, and for the purposes of a more effective management of Church property, the constitution of the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners be improved and its powers enlarged.
15. That the expense of converting leaseholds into perpetuities be diminished; and with this object, that the amount of purchase money be ascertained with such alterations of the present system as have been suggested.
16. That increased facilities be given for leasing lands belonging to the parochial clergy, and that the power to lease be vested in the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.
17. That the owners of land liable to pay tithe-rentcharge be empowered to redeem their liability.
19. That provision be made to prevent ecclesiastical persons alienating or incumbering by deed their official incomes.
20. That more stringent and summary powers of enforcing residence be given to the Bishops and Ecclesiastical Courts.

SUMMARY TABLES.

These Tables contain a summary of the statistical information, which is to be found in detail in the Schedules. Reference is made to the places in the Schedules, where the items occur, from which each Table has been compiled.

Tables I. to XIII., inclusive, are framed with a view to exhibit the Property of the Church Establishment, as distinguished from the incomes of the Ecclesiastical persons and Corporations of which it is composed; what is contributed by one department to another (as, for instance, the tax paid by the Clergy to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners) is therefore excluded from each of these Tables: the property, out of which such contribution arises, being itself classified in another Table.

Tables XIV., XV., and XVI. show the rental of the Church Lands, in which the leaseholds have been converted by the Tenants into Perpetuities, pursuant to the provisions of the Church Temporalities Acts, and also the rental of those which, although within such provisions, the Tenants still hold under leases customarily renewable for fines.

In Tables XVII. to XXV., inclusive, the Benefices are classified according to their respective extent, church population, emoluments, and other circumstances.

In Tables XXVI. and XXVII. the Revenues of the Cathedral Establishments and Dignitaries are classified.

Table XXVIII. gives an abstract of the Church Property administered by the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners and of their disbursements.

The three Benefices in the Exempt Jurisdiction of Newry and Mourne are in this Table included in the Dioceses of Down and Dromore, as being returned under those heads by the Census Commissioners, from whose Report this Table is compiled. The amount of Church population given for some Dioceses, differs slightly from what would appear from Schedule V., column 3, as some Benefices constructed from more than one Diocese, have in that Schedule been credited entirely to one Diocese.

SCHEDULES.

ESTABLISHED CHURCH (IRELAND) COMMISSION.

Schedules I., II., III., IV., contain a tabulated return of the Revenues of the Archbishops and Bishops, Corporations of Deans and Chapters, Minor Corporations, and Cathedral Dignitaries.

Schedule V. contains a similar return of the gross and net revenues of the beneficed clergy, with full particulars of the circumstances of each Benefice and of its ecclesiastical character, showing whether it is a Rectory, Vicarage, Perpetual Curacy, or Union, in whom the Patronage is vested, the Church population, the number of Churches within its limits, and the amount of charge for building or repairing the Glebe-house at present due.

Schedules VI. to XV. inclusive, contain a like return of the Revenues administered by the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Church purposes, together with the particulars of the property from which those Revenues arise, and of some trust funds vested in the Board for special purposes, and a summary of their annual disbursements.

Schedule XVI. contains the Church population of some extra parochial districts, and parishes which have been omitted from Schedule V.

The information contained in the first five Schedules (with the exception of the returns of Church population in each parish and district), has been obtained from the answers to inquiries directed to the Registrars of the different dioceses, the Bishops, the Capitular bodies, the Cathedral Dignitaries, and the beneficed Clergy. In examining these answers, assistance has been derived from the Reports of the Royal Commissioners appointed to inquire into the Revenues and Patronage of the Church in Ireland in the year 1832, and the returns to Parliament of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Ireland, made pursuant to an Order of the House of Commons, dated 9th February, 1864.

The Church population, as it appears in column 3 of Schedule V., opposite to each ecclesiastical parish and district, is taken from the returns to the Census of 1861. Except by an inquiry conducted under the authority of Government, accuracy could not be secured. The classification of religious denominations adopted by the Census Commissioners, in their published statistics, was by civil or geographical parishes. The number of members of the Established Church is by the present Commission required to be returned according to the ecclesiastical parishes and districts. This has been accomplished by the assistance of William Donnelly, Esq., C.B., Registrar-General for Ireland, who was one of the Census Commissioners in 1861, and in whose office the original returns of that Census, which was taken by townlands, are preserved. When the ecclesiastical parish or district corresponds with a civil parish, or with several civil parishes, the Census Report itself gives the means of supplying the required return. In the instances where this is not the case, the townlands of the ecclesiastical parishes and districts were ascertained by inquiries addressed to the respective incumbents, and also to the Registrars of the several dioceses in whose offices the deeds separating the districts from the mother parishes are registered. The names of these townlands were then furnished to the Registrar-General, and the return of Church population for each, as it appeared in the original papers of the Census of 1861, was made out in his office. With such sources of information as to boundaries as were open to the Commissioners (for the ecclesiastical divisions are not adopted in the Ordnance Survey), inaccuracies may have occurred in defining by townlands the contents of these ecclesiastical parishes and districts. Thus, a townland which belongs to a district may have been credited to the mother parish, and vice versâ. Again, it has been assumed that when a civil and ecclesiastical parish have the same name, they have the same boundaries; and this may not always be the case. Occasionally, in classifying the small civil parishes, when several of them have been united together to form the ecclesiastical divisions, they may have been erroneously placed. The alias names of townlands also create difficulty and uncertainty. But errors arising from these causes are not likely to be of any practical importance.

The columns 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10 of Schedule V., contain the particulars relating to the revenues of each benefice. Column 5 gives the gross amount of yearly income. In this is included an estimate of the glebe-house and surrounding grounds. The estimate for these, as also for any other lands in the hands of the incumbent, is taken from the valuation made for their assessment to poor rate. When the glebe lands are let to tenants, the amount of the rental is stated. It is to be noted that as this column returns the gross revenues not only of the parishes, but also of the perpetual curacies, whose income is either altogether or partly derived from the revenues of the mother parishes out of which they have been formed, it happens that in many instances the same property appears not only under the head of the parish, but again under the head of the curacy. For this reason, the addition of the figures in this column would not accurately represent the gross revenues received by the beneficed clergy in each Diocese. Column 6 of this Schedule enumerates the annual charges upon the income of the benefice; column 7, similar charges upon the glebe-house and glebe lands, and column 8 shows the net value after the deductions in columns 6 and 7. In column 6, stipends paid by the Rectors and Vicars to Perpetual Curates are deducted. These stipends again appear in column 5, opposite the curacies. Thus the aggregate amount in column 8 (if the pew rents and voluntary contributions appearing in column 5 be deducted) represents fairly the net income for Church endowment in each Diocese after allowing charges (such as poor rate) incident to property of the nature of land and tithe-rentcharge, and charges (such as building charges) imposed on the emoluments by statute. Column 9 gives further deductions for stipendiary curates, houses of residence when there are no glebe-houses, tax payable to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, visitation fees, or other Church purposes. In this column, the rents for houses, when there are not glebe-houses, are given as returned by the clergy. They represent, very generally, the actual payments; but sometimes an estimate proportioned to the income of the benefice. Column 10 exhibits the ultimate net income after the deductions in columns 6, 7, and 9.

Schedules VI. to XV. inclusive, contain official returns made to the present Commission by the Board of Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

Head rents and taxes average for five years, 221 9 8 The Corporation appear to subscribe liberally to the school and other local purposes in the parochial district of Aughavilly, where the principal Estate is situate.	The net annual revenue may be estimated at £2,460. This is applied to maintain the Choral Service The following salaries are paid to the choir. Bass Singers. £ s. d. Mr. Edwd. Strangways, 120 0 0 And for religious instruction of choristers, . . 50 0 0 Mr. Strangways has also a house rent free. Organist, Robert Turle, . . 300 0 0 One half of this is paid to him as organist, and the other half as master of the choristers. The distribution of the money appears to be under the charter, vested in the Archbishop of Armagh.	There are nine houses near the Cathedral, belonging to the Vicars-Choral and Organist, which are resided in by the members of the Choir; four houses, for which rent is paid out of the Funds of the Corporation, near the Cathedral, for the use of the members of the Choir, and occupied by them; there is a School-house for the Choristers, with residence for the Master, and also a music hall, where the Choristers receive daily instruction in music, and the members of the Choir meet for study of music.	The Steward of the Corporation states as follows:—there are ten Choristers who are clothed at an average annual cost of £50. The School master of the Choristers, Lewis G. Mills, LL.D., of Trinity College, Dublin, has a salary of £80, together with a free house. The Choristers are instructed by him in English, Mathematics, and Classics. Each Chorister, when leaving the Choir, receives as an apprentice fee, a sum of money varying from £40 to £50, provided that his conduct has been exemplary, and provided that the occupation on which he enters is deemed satisfactory by the Archbishop. These fees or gratuities are paid all at once, or by instalments, according to the circumstances of each case. In the years 1854, 1855, 1856, and 1857, sums amounting in the whole to £4,007 were expended on the purchase of ground, and the building of two very excellent houses, one of them for the organist, the other for one of the Vicars-Choral, and also on the building of the Choristers' School-house, and the fitting up of the Master's residence. It was found that the rule formerly in force, which required members of the Choir to bear two-thirds of the repairing of the houses which they occupied, did not work satisfactorily. Many of the buildings were falling into decay, and some of them were almost in ruins. In the year 1859 the funds of the Corporation having greatly increased, a thorough repair of the houses was commenced, and they are now in a very satisfactory condition. The outlay under this head amounted to about £245 yearly until the work was completed. Sums amounting on an average to £33 yearly are expended in assisting the tenants of the Estates to improve their houses and farm offices, and a sum of £500 is lodged on a deposit receipt in the Provincial Bank, Armagh, bearing interest which the Corporation wish to have available for an intended alteration and improvement of the organ, and of the seats of the Choir in the Cathedral. The late Primate had from time to time, up to the year 1854, advanced large sums of money to the Corporation, to aid in its support during the running out of the leases of the Estates, and the consequent loss of the fines. These loans amounted in all to £2,452 7*s* 2*d*, which sum has been gradually repaid—no interest being charged by the Primate. The agent of the Estates also made various advances in payment of salaries and other necessary outgoings, which amounted in the year 1856 to £1,424 11*s* 1*d*., and which has also been paid off, and thus by means of the munificence of the late Primate, and by his judicious management of the property of the Corporation, the annual income derived from it, which in the year 1832 was only £686 7*s*. 6*d*., is now £2,681 11*s* 9*d*., and free from all debt and incumbrances.
THE VICARS-CHORAL OF ST. CANICE, KILKENNY.
